Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a “passive” investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as their weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between the Fund and the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund’s inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

The Realised Tracking Error excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

For the period ended 31 December 2023, the tracking error disclosed for each Fund is based on an accumulation shares class that is in the same currency as the Fund’s base currency:

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, Vanguard LifeStrategy 20% Equity UCITS ETF returned 3.82% for both share classes for the six months ended 31 December 2023, reflecting its allocations to global stocks and bonds.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks and bonds rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, Vanguard LifeStrategy 60% Equity UCITS ETF returned 4.83% for both share classes for the six months ended 31 December 2023, reflecting its allocations to global stocks and bonds.

Vanguard ESG Developed Asia Pacific All Cap UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG Developed Asia Pacific All Cap UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Developed Asia Pacific All Cap Choice Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index composed of large-, mid- and small-cap stocks of companies located in developed markets of the Asia Pacific region, including Japan.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers’ efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months ended 31 December 2023 with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF’s benchmark index returned 7.13% for the six months.
- Japan and Australia, which together represent about 70% of the index, added the most to performance. South Korea also contributed. Among markets with larger weightings, only Hong Kong stocks lost ground.
- Returns were positive in 10 industry sectors represented in the index. Financial, technology and consumer discretionary stocks added most to returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor’s shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed Europe All Cap UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG Developed Europe All Cap UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe All Cap Choice Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index composed of large-, mid- and small-cap stocks of companies located in developed markets in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 4.99% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- The ETF promotes environmental and social characteristics by excluding companies from its portfolio based on the impact of their conduct or products on society and/or the environment. The ETF's benchmark excludes stocks of companies that FTSE Russell, as both the sponsor of the index and the data source, determines to be engaged or involved in, and/or derive revenue (above a threshold specified by the index provider) from vice products, nonrenewable energy and weapons. The index methodology also excludes companies that, as determined by the index provider, do not meet the labour, human rights, environmental and anticorruption standards as defined by the United Nations Global Compact Principles.
- Most of the markets represented in the benchmark had positive returns, with Denmark, Sweden and the United Kingdom contributing the most. Switzerland, Italy, Germany and Spain were also healthy contributors. The United States and the Netherlands were detractors.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive returns, with financials contributing the most. Other strong contributors included real estate, consumer discretionary, industrials and basic materials. The greatest detractor was consumer staples.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euro.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index composed of large-, mid- and small-cap stocks of companies located in emerging markets around the world.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period. The markets then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains, as the FTSE Global All Cap Index returned 7.59% for the six months ended 31 December 2023. In this environment, the ETF's benchmark returned 4.97%.
- Among markets, India, Taiwan and South Africa added the most to returns. China, which accounted for nearly one third of the index's holdings, was in negative territory and detracted the most from performance.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors added to performance, with technology and financials producing the strongest results. Consumer discretionary and energy detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Global All Cap UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG Global All Cap UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Global All Cap Choice Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index composed of large-, mid- and small-cap stocks of companies located in markets around the world.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark returned 7.96% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- The United States, which represents more than 60% of the index, added most to performance. Japan, India and Taiwan also contributed. China and the Netherlands were the biggest detractors among other markets with larger weightings.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive returns. Technology and financial stocks added most to returns. Consumer staples and energy slightly detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG North America All Cap UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE North America All Cap Choice Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index composed of large-, mid- and small-cap stocks of companies located in the United States and Canada.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains. The FTSE Global All Cap Index returned 7.59%.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 8.89% for the six months ended 31 December 2023. US stocks, which make up more than 95% of the index, drove returns.
- Among industry sectors, nine of 11 posted positive results. Technology and financial stocks, which make up almost half of the index by market value, posted the best returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE 100 UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE 100 UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE 100 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of the UK market's most highly capitalised blue-chip companies.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months ended 31 December 2023 with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index, which represents the UK market's largest companies, returned 4.54% for the six months.
- The majority of the 11 sectors in the benchmark posted positive returns for the six months. Industrials, energy and financials contributed the most. Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in British pounds.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE 250 UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE 250 UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE 250 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of mid-capitalised companies of the United Kingdom.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months ended 31 December 2023 with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 8.63% for the six months.
- Stocks in the index, which represents mid-capitalisation companies in the UK market, generally performed well, with positive returns in eight out of 11 sectors. Financials, real estate and industrials helped returns the most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in British pounds.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE All-World UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE All-World UCITS ETF seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the FTSE All-World Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large- and mid-capitalisation companies in developed and emerging markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains. In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 7.34% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- The United States, which accounted for more than 60% of the index's holdings, contributed most to its return. Other top contributors included Japan, India, Australia, the United Kingdom and Canada. China and Hong Kong detracted most from performance.
- Ten of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive returns, with technology and financials contributing most to performance. Industrials and consumer discretionary also made strong contributions. Consumer staples was the only detractor.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE All-World High Dividend Yield UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE All-World High Dividend Yield UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE All-World High Dividend Yield Index, a free-float-adjusted market capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies, excluding real estate trusts, in developed and emerging markets that pay dividends that are generally higher than average.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark returned 6.84% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- The United States, which represents more than 40% of the index, contributed more than one-third of the index's return. Japan and the United Kingdom were also top contributors. China detracted most from performance.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive returns. Financials, technology and energy contributed most to performance. Health care and consumer staples detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE Developed Asia Pacific ex Japan UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE Developed Asia Pacific ex Japan UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Developed Asia Pacific ex Japan Index, a widely recognised benchmark of the large- and mid-capitalised companies of the developed markets of the Asia-Pacific region, excluding Japan.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 7.12% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- Australia, the largest market in the index, contributed most to returns, followed by South Korea. Hong Kong was a detractor.
- Nine of the 11 industry sectors posted positive results. Financials and basic materials, two of the larger weightings in the index, contributed most to returns. Industrials and consumer staples detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE Developed Europe UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE Developed Europe UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a widely recognised benchmark of stock market performance of European developed countries that is composed of the stocks of large- and mid-capitalised companies in developed Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers’ efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
 - As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
 - Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
 - Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
 - In this environment, the ETF’s benchmark index returned 4.54% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
 - Most markets represented in the index had positive returns, with the United Kingdom, Sweden and Denmark contributing the most. The sole detractors were the Netherlands and the United States.
 - Nine of the 11 sectors recorded a positive performance. Financials and industrials contributed most to results; consumer staples detracted most.
- Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euro.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor’s shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the period. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the period and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the period is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard FTSE Developed Europe ex UK UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE Developed Europe ex UK UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe ex UK Index, a widely recognised market capitalisation-weighted index of stock market performance of European developed countries, excluding the United Kingdom, that is composed of the stocks of large- and mid-capitalisation companies in that region.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers’ efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF’s benchmark index returned 4.65% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- Nearly every market represented in the index turned in a positive performance. Sweden and Denmark contributed strongly, as did Germany and Italy. The Netherlands and the United States detracted.
- By sector, financials contributed most to the index’s return, followed by industrials, energy and basic materials. Nine of 11 sectors were positive. Consumer discretionary and consumer staples detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor’s shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE Developed World UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE Developed World UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Developed Index, a widely recognised benchmark of large- and mid-capitalisation companies in global developed markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 7.62% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- The United States, which represents more than two-thirds of the index, contributed most to its return. Japan, Australia, the United Kingdom and Canada were also among the top contributors. Hong Kong detracted most.
- Ten of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive returns. Technology, financials, industrials and consumer discretionary were the largest contributors. The sole detractor was consumer staples.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE Emerging Markets UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE Emerging Markets UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging Index, a free-float market capitalisation-weighted index of large- and mid-capitalisation companies in multiple emerging markets in Europe, Asia, Africa, Central and South America and the Middle East.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains as the FTSE Global All Cap Index returned 7.59% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- In this environment, emerging markets produced positive results. The ETF's benchmark returned 4.82%.
- Among markets with large weightings, India, Taiwan and Brazil produced some of the strongest results. Chinese stocks, which make up nearly one-third of the index, returned –6.44% and detracted from overall performance.
- Ten of the index's 11 industry sectors posted gains, led by financials, technology and energy. Consumer discretionary detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

Vanguard FTSE Japan UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE Japan UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Japan Index, a widely recognised benchmark of large- and mid-capitalised companies in Japan.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 6.57% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- Ten of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors posted positive results. Financial and technology stocks added most to returns. Health care stocks detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard FTSE North America UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard FTSE North America UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE North America Index, a market capitalisation-weighted index of large- and mid-cap companies in the United States and Canada.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 8.20% for the six months ended 31 December 2023. US stocks, which make up more than 95% of the index by market value, drove returns.
- Nine of 11 industry sectors posted positive results. Technology, which has by far the largest weighting in the index, contributed the most, followed by financials and consumer discretionary.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Germany All Cap UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard Germany All Cap UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Germany All Cap Index, a free-float-adjusted market capitalisation-weighted index composed of large-, mid- and small-cap stocks of companies located in Germany, and is derived from the broader FTSE Global Equity Index Series.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers’ efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- Stocks ended the period up significantly. In this environment, the ETF’s benchmark index returned 3.49% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- Eight of the 11 sectors produced positive results. Among the larger sectors, financials, technology and industrials returned the most.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor’s shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the period. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the period and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the period is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard S&P 500 UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard S&P 500 UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the Standard & Poor's 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is composed of the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global stocks rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains. The FTSE Global All Cap Index returned 7.59%. The United States, the largest component of the index, outperformed, along with India, Australia and Taiwan. Several European countries underperformed, including France, Germany and the United Kingdom.
- In this environment, the ETF's benchmark index returned 7.78% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive results, led by information technology, which has by far the largest weighting in the index. Financials and communications services also led among positive contributors. Consumer staples and utilities slightly detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

¹ The return of the S&P 500 UCITS ETF is adjusted by 15% for the withholding tax on dividends paid by US securities. The return of the S&P 500 Index is adjusted by 30%.

² Since-inception returns: USD Accumulating, 14 May 2019.

Vanguard ESG EUR Corporate Bond UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG EUR Corporate Bond UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI EUR Corporate Liquid Bond Screened Index, a EUR denominated universe of investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global bonds rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months ended 31 December 2023 with solid gains.
- The ETF's benchmark returned 5.89% for the 6 months.
- Among the largest constituents in the index, Switzerland and Sweden outperformed. The United States and France performed roughly in line with the index, while Spain and Italy were among the laggards.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions returned more than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- By maturity, long-dated bonds significantly outperformed. And by credit quality, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder returned more than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euro.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Global Corporate Bond UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG Global Corporate Bond UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI Global Corporate Float-Adjusted Liquid Bond Screened Index, a multi-currency universe index of investment-grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained center stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rates. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global bonds rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains.
- The ETF's benchmark returned 5.95% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- The United States, the largest constituent in the index by far, underperformed the index as a whole, as did Japan and Canada. A number of European countries outperformed, including the United Kingdom, Italy and Germany.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions and utilities returned more than those issued by industrial companies.
- By credit quality, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder performed better than their higher-rated counterparts. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG USD Corporate Bond UCITS ETF

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

Vanguard ESG USD Corporate Bond UCITS ETF seeks to track the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI USD Corporate Float-Adjusted Liquid Bond Screened Index, a USD denominated universe of investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Concerns about inflation – and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession – remained centre stage in the second half of 2023.
- As the rise in consumer price increases eased, many central banks, including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, left off hiking short-term interest rate. These actions helped buoy market sentiment, as did signs of resilience in the labour markets and consumer spending, and dialled back expectations of a sustained economic downturn.
- Financial markets slumped in autumn on concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, then reversed course towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of central bank rate cuts in 2024.
- Global bonds rebounded from mid-period declines to finish the six months with solid gains. The Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index returned 4.22%.
- The ETF's benchmark index returned 4.99% for the six months ended 31 December 2023.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions returned more than those than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- By credit quality, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder returned more than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.
